ABOUT THE WINERY

Gallician natural winemaker Constantina Sotelo took over the family vineyards in 1985: free standing vines planted in 'the cradle of Albariño' the Salnés Valley a few meters from the Ría de Arousa. Constantina began making her own wine in 1999 and in 2010 was making her first natural wines with no interventions. She personally and manually oversees all steps in the farming and winemaking process, to ensure the least possible intervention and achieve honest and environmentally friendly viticulture under the protection of the lunar calendar.

Constantina Sotelo ferments her wines in a variety of ways, including reclaimed chestnut barrels, terracotta amphorae, stoneware amphoras, spherical earthen amphoras, terra-cotta bottles and concrete eggs. Her wines are clear and honest expressions of Albariño to reflect her vineyards and the beautiful natural environment.
